Big City Pressure Groups
Favored By Bigelow Plan

Rural Areas To Be Voiceless?

THOSE concerned about the consequences of the Bigelow amendment, the farmers, professional men, teachers, businessmen, industrialists and home owners who are active in support of the Ohio Emergency Committee, question the merit of the amendment's second phase as much as they do the pension proposal.

The second phase, if accepted by the voters on Nov. 7, will permit as few as 100,000 persons to sign petitions for the revision or amendment of the Ohio constitution. It would permit as few as 50,000 to sign petitions to initiate or change Ohio laws.

If the voters permit these things to happen the Emergency Committee says it will sink representative government in Ohio, that it would devitalize the state legislature and bring all sorts of schemes forward for the benefit of pressure groups.

THE legislature would be deprived of an opportunity to consider such changes or amendments to the constitution or such changes or revision of state laws.

The constitution now provides that an amendment may be submitted to a vote of the people (as the Bigelow amendment now is submitted) if a petition is signed by 10 per cent of the voters. At this time approximately 241,000 such signatures must be obtained and they must include 10 per cent of the vote in at least 44 of the state's 88 counties.

As it stands today the farmers have a chance to vote their sentiments, as have the people of big and little counties all over the state.

Mr. Brumley adds: "Our present initiative system has worked well for 27 years. Under it the people have approved 19 measures and beaten 41. We now enact most of our laws in the legislature where any citizen can appear before a committee and be heard. If a bill is complicated it can be amended or compromised. We can't do that with an initiated measure. It is written on stone. It can't be amended even if it is wrong."

Theodore Roosevelt, a supporter of the present initiative provisions, foresaw dangers if the process were made too easy. At the time of enactment he said: "The power to invoke direct action should be provided in such fashion as to prevent its being wantonly or too frequently used. If you do make it too easy you run a great risk of destroying it."

The Ohio Emergency Committee says Theodore Roosevelt's words were a warning—and a prophecy.

BIGELOW contends it should be made easier for the people to do their own legislating. In 1912, he says, when the existing initiative provision was enacted the percentage requirements made it necessary to have only 103,000 signatures for constitutional amendment and 30,000 signatures for the enactment of laws. He says the growth of population and extension of the right to vote to women now make it difficult and costly to get the required number of petition signatures.

He wants the percentage requirements to be disregarded and the greater voting population of today to be submissive to the wishes of the smaller number existing 27 years ago.

The Ohio Emergency committee says: "Any group who could get 100,000 signatures might rip our constitution to shreds. By getting 50,000 signatures they could initiate any crazy law. A voter might be confronted with a score of constitutional changes and a hundred new laws. It would be political hell."

For all practical purposes, the committee says, the state legislature might just as well be abolished if such condition were to prevail. The Committee estimates that it costs about $25,000 for all

Returns From Ohio
Townsend Meeting

Fred Kopp of East Ninth st., president of the Salem Townsend club, has returned from Columbus where he attended, during the weekend, the fall meeting of speakers, presidents, secretaries and membership chairmen of clubs affiliated with the Townsend National Recovery Plan, Inc., of Ohio.

Beacher Hess of Norwood spoke Saturday afternoon on "How a Speaker Should Speak". The evening meeting featured a film, "Youth Meets Life", shown by Glen S. Wilson, national director of the visual education department, assisted by Mr. Larimore, president of the Alliance Townsend club.

L. W. Jeffrie, vice president, of the Townsend club, addressed the group Sunday morning on political action and opposition to all state pension plans. Dr. Francis E. Townsend, president of the Townsend corporation, spoke before 5,000 convention visitors in Memorial hall Sunday afternoon.

GESTURES

Russia now having added its booming bass to Adolf Hitler's clarion call for peace, with Italy remaining stand-offish and critical of the harmony, there seems nothing to do in the United States but enjoy the serenade. For once, at least, it's perfectly clear that this country can't do anything about Europe's affairs.

The British and French, meanwhile, are standing firm, a gesture the Manchester Guardian hopes will enlist the support of the United States in the "war to free Europe from the menace of aggression." Apparently it is with the same thought that Germany and Russia are proposing an amicable settlement. A tense struggle for American public opinion is in progress.

Gestures are the weapons of this struggle. Germany made a gesture of friendship by telling United States shipping how to be safe in war zones; Russia last week let it be known it expected to import more U. S. goods this year; French and British war missions considerably have postponed placing orders till the neutrality debate cooled down.

It's all supposed to lead somewhere—and soon will, no doubt. The maneuvering for position, almost as frantic in the field of propaganda as on the fighting front, will come to a climax. There won't be any more gestures to make, except the final one of drawing a bead on the antagonist. If, when that time comes, the American gesture continues to be the puckering of lips that goes with the Bronx cheer there are going to be a lot of disappointed Europeans.

NATIONALISM GOES HAYWIRE

On Thursday, October 12
EXCITEMENT and high tension are forecast for this day by the nature of the lunar transits. The effort to launch new and important projects may give great stimulus to the forces and facilities. The danger is from impetuous or excessive application of these forces, which may run counter to the desires and policies of those in power, or of employers or others whose influence is desirable. Some critical changes in plans may be demanded. Exercise of tact and calm deliberation may prove advantageous.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves deep in a year in which important creative urges may crave expression, probably in entirely new directions and on a large scale. These require the co-operation of superiors, employers or those in authority. This support is dubious unless maneuvered with cleverness in deliberation, rather than high-pressure tactics. Some rather perilous changes of plans and tactics may be demanded. Shun excesses and over-cautiousness.

A child born on this day may be energetic, aggressive, ardent and audacious, with much native talent and creative force.

TWO OPINIONS have been advanced as to the reason for decay of teeth.

The old one, of course, is well known. Our mothers and grandmothers taught us that we should brush our teeth twice a day; this ordinary form of cleanliness was supposed to prevent germs from attacking the surface of the teeth.

HITLER'S BABY IS BACK
BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

French Premier Daladier has given Herr Hitler half the Allied answer to the Nazi chieftain's peace proposals—and the reply of the "Bull of Provence" is that there is nothing doing along the Hitlerian lines.

British Prime Minister Chamberlain is expected to give the other half of the Anglo-French response in parliament tomorrow, and there has been no indication that it won't echo the sentiments of his brother-at-arms across the English channel.

Responsible Nazi quarters in Berlin, anxiously hoping for a favorable reply, reluctantly admit that if Chamberlain follows the expected course, then the prospects of peace won't be so bright. Observers generally don't quarrel with that viewpoint.

That puts the baby back on Hitler's door-step.

It will be for him to decide whether he wants to go ahead with the war or seek some other avenue of approach to the peace which he undoubtedly wants.

In any event he must act. He can't sit still and let the Allied blockade strangle him.

Many close observers figure that the Nazi leader finds himself in a difficult position which calls for all his skill in the handling. His new-found brotherhood with Comrade Stalin of Moscow has developed along such amazing lines that commentators declare Hitler is being crowded harder by Russia than he is by the Anglo-French Allies.

The price which Stalin has been taking for cooperation with Hitler is a landmark in history.

The Russian penetration westward—and into German preserves at that—is the most remarkable development of the entire European upheaval. And it was the least expected.

It represents not only an extension of political domination over strategic areas, but the spread of Communism.

The first sensation was the Soviet's seizure of half Poland, which already has been Sovietized in large degree. Then the little Baltic states of Latvia and Estonia signed pacts which granted Russia military bases and made those countries virtual protectorates. Yesterday Lithuania followed suit.

And now Stalin has Finland on the carpet.

Should Russia intend—as Finland fears—to demand concessions similar to those which have brought the Baltic states under Soviet control, then the position of the little republic would indeed be an unhappy one.

ONE OF THE FACTS OF LIFE

The big three in taxes looks like this: Property, income and payroll. The Federation of Tax Administrators has just announced that payroll taxes yielded 10 percent of the total American tax yield in 1938—one of the most important changes in the American tax picture ever made. Together, the big three accounted for approximately 65 percent of government income.

Emphasis on social legislation nearly always is placed where it will do the most good from a political standpoint—on benefits. It has been sold to the country on that basis, but it takes more than the humanitarian impulse to make the payments. Payroll taxation, the means of supporting old age pensions and unemployment benefits, already is taking 10 percent of the nation's tax resources and may be expected to take more in proportion to the spread of social security coverage.

What started out to be enlightened humanitarianism already is a grim financial problem that will need an infinite amount of enlightened public financing to keep it under control.

SPECIFICATIONS

It's a relief to get back to weather as a topic of conversation. Specifications overheard for improvement are as follows:

There should be more rain.

There should be plenty of the "bright blue" days expected in October.

It shouldn't be quite so warm.

It shouldn't be much colder, however.

If these seemingly irreconcilable desires can be satisfied in the near future, October will have been a success in at least one respect. If it "came on to snow" in Europe and kept right on snowing till the middle of next May, October might even redeem itself in some more important respects.

NATIONALISM GOES HAYWIRE

Offhand, it seems a shame Russia's solution for Germany's acute nationalism wasn't thought of sooner. In the Soviet's Baltic sphere of influence there will be no Germans; they will be moved "from home to the reich" at Germany's expense. The Nazi complaint of abused minorities will not be raised at Russia's expense in the Baltic states as it was raised in Czechoslovakia.

Yet, this is at best an indifferent solution to a problem that should not have been created. The absurdity of Hitler's theory of race needs no demonstration to anyone but its originator. What there is to be gained by uprooting families for the sake of having all Germans inside the reich is something only Hitlerites can understand, even though present circumstances make it desirable that all Nazi sympathizers be concentrated in one place, to avert trouble elsewhere.

Ultimately, perhaps black-haired Germans may be segregated in one section of Germany and light-haired ones in another. Then they could strive with one another for supremacy inside the reich, instead of periodically challenging neighboring states to a round of lethal grappling. Nationalism gone haywire—Germany's affliction—seems little different from an inferiority complex causing its victim to flex his muscles at frequent intervals to keep from being bowed down by awareness of his shortcomings.

Dr. R. M. Schwartz, local health officer, will leave Monday for Columbus where he will spend two weeks taking a course in public health instruction. This course of instruction is conducted by the state health department.

Mrs. Irving Megrail of Winona and Mrs. McKee of McKinley ave. were received as new members, and Mrs. G. M. Deller of Alliance and Mrs. T. R. Whinery of this city were guests at an enjoyable meeting of the Narcissus club at the home of Mrs. J. E. Walton on Garfield ave. Friday afternoon. Mrs. H. A. Van Syoc, Vine st., will be hostess in two weeks.

Miss Gladys Woerther was surprised this afternoon by nine of her friends, honoring her ninth birthday anniversary, at her home on Evans st. She received a number of gifts. A lunch was served. The afternoon was spent informally, with games as a feature.

THE STARS SAY:

For Thursday, October 12

EXCITEMENT and high tension are forecast for this day by the nature of the lunar transits. The effort to launch new and important projects may give great stimulus to the forces and faculties. The danger is from impetuous or excessive application of these forces, which may run counter to the desires and policies of those in power, or of employers or others whose influence is desirable. Some critical changes in plans may be demanded. Exercise of tact and calm deliberation may prove advantageous.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves deep in a year in which important creative urges may crave expression, probably in entirely new directions and on a large scale. These require the cooperation of superiors, employers or those in authority. This support is dubious unless maneuvered with cleverness and deliberation, rather than high-pressure tactics. Some rather perilous changes of plans and tactics may be demanded. Shun excesses and overenthusiasm.

A child born on this day may be energetic, aggressive, ardent and audacious, with much native talent and creative force.

HITLER'S BABY IS BACK

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

French Premier Daudier has given Herr Hitler half the Allied answer to the Nazi chieftain's peace proposals—and the reply of the "Bull of Provence" is that there is nothing doing along the Hitlerian lines.

British Prime Minister Chamberlain is expected to give the other half of the Anglo-French response in parliament tomorrow, and there has been no indication that it won't echo the sentiments of his brother-at-arms across the English channel.

Responsible Nazi quarters in Berlin, anxiously hoping for a favorable reply, reluctantly admit that if Chamberlain follows the expected course, then the prospects of peace won't be so bright. Observers generally don't quarrel with that viewpoint.

That puts the baby back on Hitler's door-step. It will be for him to decide whether he wants to go ahead with the war or seek some other avenue of approach to the peace which he undoubtedly wants.

In any extent he must act. He can't sit still and let the Allied blockade strangle him.

Many close observers figure that the Nazi leader finds himself in a difficult position which calls for all his skill in the handling. His new-found brotherhood with Comrade Stalin of Moscow has developed along such amazing lines that commentators declare Hitler is being crowded harder by Russia than he is by the Anglo-French Allies.

The price which Stalin has been taking for cooperation with Hitler is a landmark in history.

The Russian penetration westward—and into German preserves at that—is the most remarkable development of the entire European upheaval. And it was the least expected.

It represents not only an extension of political domination over strategic areas, but the spread of Communism.

The first sensation was the Soviet's seizure of half Poland, which already has been Sovietized in large degree. Then the little Baltic states of Latvia and Estonia signed pacts which granted Russia military bases and made those countries virtual protectorates. Yesterday Lithuania followed suit.

And now Stalin has Finland on the carpet.

Should Russia intend—as Finland fears—to demand concessions similar to those which have brought the Baltic states under Soviet control, then the position of the little republic would indeed be an unhappy one.

The micoscopes reportedly are seeking the privilege of establishing naval bases on the Aland islands, a Finnish group of vast strategic importance which strings across the entrance to the Gulf of Bothnia between Finland and Sweden.

Control of the Alands, coupled with the concessions already secured from the small Baltic states, would make Russia dominant in the Baltic. Thus one of the biggest gems in the crown which Nazi Chieftain Hitler had hoped to wear would have gone glimmering.

Attempts To Reconcile
Two Opinions On Teeth

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

TWO OPINIONS have been advanced as to the reason for decay of teeth.

The best dentifrices are the simplest. The basis of most of them is powdered chalk. We can recommend the following:

Prepared chalk 2 ounces
Powdered Orris root 2 ounces
Pumice stone 1 ounce

The actual technique of brushing the teeth is quite as important as the dentifrice used.

Like Painting a Fence
When you start in the morning to brush your teeth, consider them as so many pickets of a white fence and suppose you are going to paint the fence. Brush your teeth in the same orderly manner. Start at the extreme right hand corner of the upper jaw and, with your tooth brush, brush the teeth as if painting the fence; go over everything, front, back and sides. Go slowly around the front of the upper set of teeth, then turn around and go slowly back behind until you return to the place where you started from.

Then start downstairs and do the same thing with the lower set, front and back.

The motion of the tooth brush should be rotary. Dig your hand in and keep your hand moving so that the interstices between the teeth are cleaned out. The tooth brush should be small so that the bristles will fit in the mouth and make no trouble when you engage any irregular tooth. The child should learn to do this at the very earliest period of his life, and you may be assured that any time used in teaching this procedure will not be wasted.

Questions And Answers

M. A. P.: "Can a tuberculosis patient take too much soda bicarbonate? Are two teaspoons in two full glasses of water during the day too much? I have tried many remedies but nothing gives the prompt relief for burning in the throat and stomach that soda does."

Answer: I do not think that soda in the amount you name can do any harm. In the Sippy treatment for peptic ulcer 12 teaspoons of soda a day are given.

J. Z.: "What causes uric acid in the system, and how may it be remedied?"

Answer: Uric acid is derived from the purine bases in the food found in meats, particularly in kidneys, sweetbreads, liver. The human body does not oxidize nor eliminate uric acid readily. Preparations of colchicum help in elimination.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 233 E. 45th St., New York City. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diseases," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Then start downstairs and do the same thing with the lower set, front and back.

Most Useful

The most useful dentifrice is probably the one that is roughest, the most abrasive. But though the abrasiveness may be high, it must not be used at the expense of the real value of the dentifrice. Chemical reactions in the dentifrice are important and have nothing to do with the actual abrasiveness of the compound. Abrasiveness means the ability to wear away the teeth by mechanical means. Pumice and lime are the best abrasives.

It is estimated that over a million dollars annually is spent for various remedies for relieving piles. Yet all druggists will tell you that soothng, cooling, astringent Peterson's Ointment will ailay pile torture in a few minutes. 35c a box, 6cc in tube with applicator. Peterson's Ointment stops itching promptly, brings joyful relief. Money back if not delighted.

CHAPTER XVII
It was noon when Wish came in to the hotel. He did not stop at her counter but went on into Downey's. Shortly the two men came back together.

"Mike, I've got something to tell you. You're going along with us to-morrow."

"But how can I?"

"Well, arrange it, somehow."

"We'll fix your salary so it will run while you're away. I'll send it over to your mother." Downey said.

"But Wish—"

"It's all right. Carol Lee will look after you. She's a good egg. She and Dusty always have a large sum. You can have one of the beauties. You're her guest!"

"But clothes? Wish? I haven't any—"

"Don't worry. Carol Lee will look after you. She's a good egg. She and Dusty always have a large sum. You can have one of the beauties. You're her guest!"

"Of course you can. I mean you don't look shabby."

Downey took a hand in the matter. If you need clothes, you can get the man Chicago. Make the club pay for them."

"How can I leave Jimmie that long?"

"He'll be so thrilled over your letters he won't mind." Wish insisted.

"Here's $50. Take it. I'll get it from the club."

"You mean leave right now?"

"Of course. If you've got any shopping to do, get busy. The train leaves at 6:30 p.m. I've got your ticket. I'll give it to Carol. Meet you down at the station."

"Does Handsome know about it?"

Mike was suddenly afraid.

"That's what he's been screamin' for! Well find out when we meet you at the station!" And Wish rushed off leaving Mike with Downey. He urged her to get on the way.

"I'll get your pay to your mother. Mike. Don't worry about a thing."

"It doesn't seem fair to you, Mr. Downey."

Downey only laughed and urged her to hurry. He did not explain that the club would look after him.

Shortly Mike found herself out on the street breathless, her purse with $50.00 clutched in her hand. She had to have another pair of gloves. It was almost one o'clock. She should get a dress or a suit or something. The white linen would not do. September. Frantic, she had to buy just what would be absolutely necessary purchases.

When she came out of the store, it was 3 o'clock. She was hot and faint. She'd had no lunch. Desperately she climbed into a cab with her packages. She could not face struggling with the bundles in the subway. And she felt guilty about such extravagance.

When she finally walked into the apartment Jimmie was resting and so was her mother. She came in like a summer cyclone, dumped her purchases on the table, and the words tumbled out of her mouth.

"What about my old coat, mother?" she called. "And is there a decent looking suit case?"

The little apartment was suddenly turned into a madhouse. Mrs. Samson got to work on the new Mack truck and Mike began throwing ing cut clothes from the dresser drawers.

It was Mrs. Wheeler from across the hall who saved the day for Mike. She came in, learned the situation and went to work pressing a spring coat. She loaned Mike a respectable looking suitcase, too.

During all this Mike had to give instructions about money. There were certain bills which must be met. Then Jimmie had to have everything explained to him. Mike was so excited, his pinched little face burned hot with fever, and Mike's heart sank. Maybe, she shouldn't leave him.

But her mother overruled her: "Go, it will do you good."

There was a little money in the old broken teapot where her mother had laid extra dollars. Mike gave her everything she had except five dollars of the money Wish had given her. She'd have to have some things for tips.

"Mike, you better take lessons from me. See this mail? I go over it with a fine tooth comb. Dusty doesn't see only what I want him to see. Besides, I watch the telephone like a hawk. Have to." She sighed deeply. "Women are fools and it's up to each of us to fight. Nobody is ever going to cut in on Dusty!"

Mike was amused. The four days she had been traveling with the club had left her gasping.... Carol was a constant surprise. Mike smiled at the thought of how slender Carol ordered big Dusty Lee about. And how he obeyed!

"Never let 'em get the upper hand, Mike."

It was close to lunch time. Mike went back to the contemplation of the suit while Carol commented:

"Yes, it's good. It looks like something. We must get you a decent hat. Better leave the suit on. We'll shop for this afternoon."

"Lord, no! Not if I can help it. Handsome's not pitching. Dusty is. And my Hubby doesn't want me out there watching. He says I make him nervous! That's a break for me." Mike looked a little startled.

"I'd like to see the game!" she protested.

"Nonsense, if you go, I have to!" Now get ready and we'll go hat hunting. We can pick up a bite."

The two were off a little after noon. The hat was bought and put on Mike's pretty head by one o'clock. Carol seemed restless.

"Now, honey, I want you to do something for me. I've got some business to attend to. It's a personal matter. Be a good girl and run along." Carol was watching Mike's unsuspecting face. "I'll meet you some place at 5 o'clock." Carol added.

"I shouldn't have let you talk me into spending that much on it. I can't afford it."

"Nonsense! The club's got to pay the bill, anyhow. You've got to look decent!"

Carol had been furious when Ace Barnes had broken the news to her that she must chaperon Mike. But now she found the girl amusing. Besides, Carol liked anybody whom she could teach something about clothes, and Mike was a likely pupil.

The telephone rang. As Carol got up to answer it, Mike, still on her knees, stared ruefully at the suit spread out over a big overstuffed chair. Its elegance was beyond Mike's wildest dreams. It was simple with a simplicity which Mike had learned, cost money. No doubt, Carol knew clothes!

Carol perched on the arm of the chair had dropped into her best finishing school voice as she picked up the telephone:

"Yes?" she drawled. "No, I'm sorry, Mr. Lee is not in." She wrinkled her nose at Mike as she put on her "telephone act," as Carol always called it: "This is Mrs. Lee speaking. May I give Mr. Lee the message?"

There was a slight pause, then Carol slapped down the telephone: "There, she won't call again. Not after that."

"Same girl that called last night." Carol lit a cigarette, sank back on the davenport.

"Mike, you better take lessons from me. See this mail? I go over it with a fine tooth comb. Dusty doesn't see only what I want him to see. Besides, I watch the telephone like a hawk. Have to." When Mike was finally dressed in the old black crepe for traveling, the old look nice. She had new gloves, and a purse. It was hard, saying good-bye to Jimmie, but finally she got out of the house on schedule. Mrs. Wheeler pressed one of her sons into service to drive Mike over to Grand Central.

At the station, Mike could see nobody she knew. She was a little ahead of time. Wish came, found her forlorn, with her two bags and her hat box and he thought he'd never seen a prettier picture. He sent her luggage on the train to Carol Lee's drawing room, and then waited for the rest of the gang.

Ace Barnes came early. It was the first time Mike had met the famous catcher-manager, and she was shy.

"Thanks for coming," was all he said as he shook her hand. Mike was sure he hardly saw her. He was distraught and worried. Then Handsome came swinging down the steps on a half run for the gate.

"Larry!" Wish's voice halted him. "She's going!"

Handsome's face, when he heard the news, was payment enough for Mike's panic and worry.

Carol and Mike were busy opening packages in the Lee suite in a Chicago south shore hotel. The pile of packages was the result of their first day's shopping trip. With trembling fingers Mike undid the big box which held her new suit.

"It's beautiful!" the girl said, her eyes shining as she held up the jacket.

Carol and Mike were busy opening packages in the Lee suite in a Chicago south shore hotel. The pile of packages was the result of their first day's shopping trip. With trembling fingers Mike undid the big box which held her new suit.

"Now, honey, I want you to do something for me. I've got some business to attend to. It's a personal matter. Be a good girl and run along." Carol was watching Mike's unsuspecting face. "I'll meet you some place at 5 o'clock." Carol added.

"But I must be back at the hotel by the time Handsome comes."

"I know. So must I, for Dusty. Now, Mike, you know everybody wants a little time to themselves. It's just that Dusty is jealous of everything I do..." Carol's eyes faltered under Mike's direct gaze.

"Where do you want me to meet you?" Mike asked without further comment. Her voice was cool and untroubled, but it cut off any confidences.

"Do you live in Chicago?" was the first question.

"No, I live in New York."

"You do? My daughter lives in New York." The old woman's face lighted up. "She's such a pretty girl. She's going right well, too. But I wish she'd come home to visit it."

"She's been gone a long time?"

Mike asked for the lack of anything else to say.

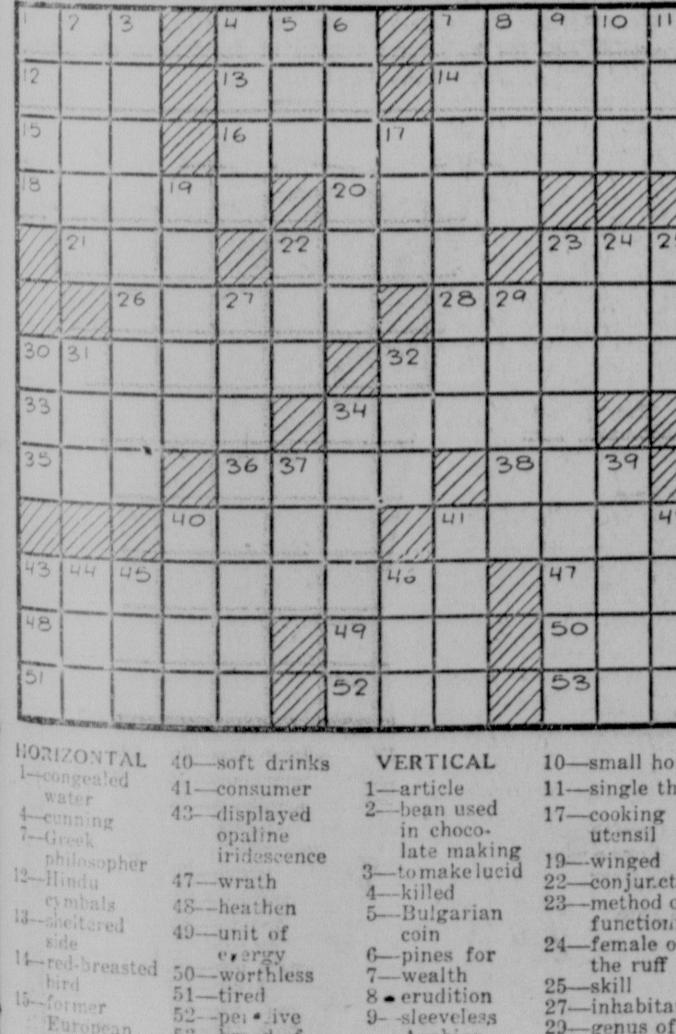

"Four years. She promised to come home last Christmas, but she couldn't get away from her job. She's an actress." The old woman leaned forward to see if Mike would be shocked at the pronouncement.

Andre Maginot

To this humble poilu, Private Andre Maginot (pictured during the First World War) goes the credit for the Maginot Line, the French wall on the frontier with Germany. He conceived and designed the great line of fortifications which France believes makes her invulnerable to land attack.

Giant and Dwarf of French Tank Corps

This picture gives an excellent idea of the tremendous size of the French ninety-two ton tank which has done such damage on the Western front where it is credited with having aided materially in the tank battle that ended with the French in command of strategic Borg Forest. The "baby tank" weighing twelve tons, affords a good comparison. France is employing vast numbers of these machines in her slow but steady advance.

America's Foreign Policy Traveler's Club Subject

America's foreign policy, under close observation today, was discussed at the regular meeting of the Travelers club in the library assembly room Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Myra Erwin, presenting the first paper of the year's program, "American Glimpses," explained the origin and circumstances of the Monroe doctrine which has set the keynote for this country's foreign policy since 1823.

The document—the meaning, interpretation and the extent of which have been argued and discussed for 115 years—was designed to preserve the integrity of this country and others in the western hemisphere before the onslaught of foreign powers.

Simply a statement that the United States will not meddle in the political affairs of Europe and it can not meddle in ours, the doctrine has kept foreign nations from active colonization and extension of spheres of influence in any country in this hemisphere.

Feature Work Of Two Ohio Composers

A program on the life and works of two Ohio composers, the late Daniel Emmett, known for his "Dixie Land," and Francisco DeLeon, whose work is attracting considerable attention, was enjoyed by the Junior Music Study club at the home of Miss Cleo Santee, Newgarden rd.

Miss Ruth West was associate hostess.

Nanabelle Beardmore presented a paper on the composers. Daniel Emmett, native of Ohio, and obscure except for his beloved song of the southland, was born in 1850 and died in 1904. DeLeon, whose home is in Akron, was born in Ravenna and studied at the Dame Institute of Music in Warren. His Indian opera, "Algala," was presented last weekend in Cleveland by the Ohio Harris-Hardie Players group at the Wade Park playhouse as the opening offering of their season.

Miss Mary Lou Cope sang "Dixie Land" (Emmett) with group singing of the chorus. DeLeon's "Spring's Melody" was a piano selection by Miss Ruth Alice Stoudt.

The following new members were received: Maybellie Huston, Jean Warner, Robert Entrikin, Stephen Hart, Betty Merry, Paul Evans and Charles Lynn.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses and a social hour followed.

The club will meet Oct. 24 at the home of Miss Stoudt on North Lincoln ave.

W. R. C. Practices

Trenton post No. 34, Women's Relief Corps, practiced last night for inspection which is scheduled for Oct. 27.

Regular business was transacted. The next meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 24 in the K. of P. hall.

Miss Erwin touched on the present "Holy Alliance" of foreign powers in their effort to extend propaganda in South America and the United States. She described the operation of the "good neighbor" policy, which she said "depends upon good neighbors" and can never be "one-sided policy."

Another important phase of American foreign policy, "The Open Door in China," was the subject of a paper by Mrs. Arthur H. Vaughan. The "open door," which this nation and others engaged in trade and commercial enterprises in China are even now striving to keep in effect, is the doctrine which permits all nations equal rights of trade in China. The open door was effected during the later years of the Manchu rule of China and continued, through various periods of other governments, including the republic, until the Japanese conquest.

With Japanese domination of important provinces has come the threat of a "slamming of the open door," to the detriment of western nations' trade, particularly that of Great Britain and United States.

Mrs. Vaughan pointed out the present position of United States, won through the efforts of this country to make agreements for the best interests of China, must be maintained or we will lose prestige.

Although we have merely sat on the sidelines in the recent Sino-Japanese conflict, she said, to persevere in our intention to contract no entangling foreign alliances, we have abrogated trade alliances with Japan, in protest against her action in China and otherwise expressed our disapproval of her policies, which, if successful, will surely destroy the right to free trade in the vanquished territory.

Miss Eugenia Suliot's paper on "America's Present Foreign Policy," concluding the program, presented an explanation of the three major divisions of our announced policy: Isolation from entangling foreign alliances; the Monroe doctrine; and the open door in China.

Mrs. Suliot pointed out that much the same situation which existed in 1793 and 1915 exists in '93, with our desires plainly the same. They are: the maintenance of friendly relations with all countries, the contraction of entangling alliances with none, and freedom at the seas.

To that end she said, we are now engaged in debating a neutrality issue which has been called the most important decision which our nation's government has been asked to make in recent history. The problem seems to be the method to use to preserve our neutrality with the aims embargo looming as the solution, if it can be decided whether the repeal of the embargo or its continuance is the wiser course.

Atty. Joel Sharp will be speaker at next Tuesday's meeting at the library. Atty. Sharp will talk on the European war, the events leading up to it and America's attitude toward it.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rainin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the body and gives you trouble. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour. Sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere handful of Calomel doesn't get at the liver. You must take those old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Haunder gently yet firmly in making bile flow freely. And those Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Refuse anything else. At all drug stores. 10¢ and 25¢.

Very sheer for your dressy stockings. They're high twist for long wear and give that fashionable slim leg appearance.

Now $1.25 Pair—Will Be $1.35 Pair.

Sizes 8½ to 11.

Quota Club Plans To Send Delegates To District Rally

Plans to send Miss Martha Wire and Miss Margaret Kirkbride to the conference of Quota District 6 in London, Ont., Saturday and Sunday were completed at a meeting of the Quota club in Centennial park Tuesday evening.

The business session, conducted by Miss Alice Gladwin, followed a dinner in the inclosed pavilion at the park. Misses Ella Stamp and Louise Goshen were in charge. The room was decorated attractively in Halloween design, with large trays of apples and grapes arranged as centerpieces.

Games and informal entertainment were enjoyed after the meeting.

The Oct. 24 dinner-meeting will be held in the Memorial building.

Wife Of Watchman To Appeal Her Case

LISBON, Oct. 11.—Susan Green of Akron, widow of Stephen Green, formerly of Lisbon, kil foreman at the plant of the American Vitrified Products company, who was buried at the plant on the night of Nov. 15, three years ago, has filed a suit through her attorney, Zarko M. Buncic, of Akron, of her intention to carry her case against the Industrial Commission of Ohio to the court of appeals.

Mrs. Green filed action soon after the death of her husband against the state industrial commission, and on June 13, last, a jury in the common pleas court returned a verdict in her favor, giving her the right to participate in the state industrial fund. Two months later, in ruling on a motion to set this verdict aside, the court found in favor of the industrial commission and entered judgment against Mrs. Green for costs.

CHICAGO GRAIN

A slight upward revision in official estimates of United States corn, spring wheat and oats production this season unsettled the grain market today.

The corn market, in particular, was weak with early losses of almost a cent reflecting an unlooked for increase in the corn crop estimate.

The government report showed that domestic corn supplies were the largest with one exception, in more than 15 years.

Opening 1/2 lower, December 50, May 52 1/2, corn later declined further. Wheat started 1/4 down, December 82 1/4, May 82 1/2, and later rallied.

Bricker Hits Cost Of Pension Program

COLUMBUS, Oct. 11.—Financing of the proposed Bigelow old age pension plan would cost twice as much as is now spent to run the state government, Gov. John W. Bricker believes.

Addressing an audience of farmers attending a field day here last night, the governor said the proposed amendment, which will be submitted to a popular vote next month, was the "biggest public problem" at present.

"If passed, it will cost $31,000,000 annually," he asserted, "twice what the state spends now."

The plan would provide for payment of $50 monthly to single persons and $80 to married couples retired from gainful employment.

THREE KILLED IN SCHOOL BUS

Disabled Vehicle Plunges Over 75-Foot Embankment Enroute to School at War, W. Va.

WAR, W. Va., Oct. 11.—A disabled school car careened from a highway and plunged down a 75-foot embankment today, killing three students and injuring 62 other persons, some critically.

The big, 70-passenger machine carrying 64 students and the driver to Big Creek High school here left on the Norfolk and Western Railway tracks and smashed to bits.

The dead were identified as Maxine Beavers of Bartley, 18-year-old high school senior, crushed under the wreckage; Lucille Mullins of Rysals, who died in Stevens clinic at Welch; and 17-year-old Ernest Wood of Bartley, who succumbed in Grace hospital at Welch.

Physicians held little hope for several others who were badly hurt.

O. W. U. Speaker

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Mayor

LaGuardia today appointed Lou Gehrig, former New York Yankee star first baseman incapacitated by a subtle form of paralysis, a city parole commissioner.

The appointment, for a term of slightly more than 10 years, carries a salary of $6,000, less a current 5 per cent pay cut.

The commission is a five-man board headed by the police and correction commissioners, ex officio, with three members appointed by the mayor.

The matter has been under advisement for over four months," the mayor said in making the announcement at the summer city hall in Queens.

"In the meantime, Mr. Gehrig has read about all the reports on parole that have been published and several works on the subject. I have had several conferences with him, and the final decision was made a few days ago.

"I believe he will not only be an able, intelligent commissioner, but that he himself will be an inspiration and a hope to many of the younger boys who have gotten into trouble."

Bricker Hits Cost Of Pension Program

COLUMBUS, Oct. 11.—Financing of the proposed Bigelow old age pension plan would cost twice as much as is now spent to run the state government, Gov. John W. Bricker believes.

Addressing an audience of farmers attending a field day here last night, the governor said the proposed amendment, which will be submitted to a popular vote next month, was the "biggest public problem" at present.

"If passed, it will cost $311,000,000 annually," he asserted, "twice what the state spends now."

The plan would provide for payment of $50 monthly to single persons and $80 to married couples retired from gainful employment.

Plans to send Miss Martha Wire and Miss Margaret Kirkbride to the conference of Quota District 6 in London, Ont., Saturday and Sunday were completed at a meeting of the Quota club in Centennial park Tuesday evening.

The business session, conducted by Miss Alice Gladdien, followed a dinner in the inclosed pavilion at the park. Misses Ella Stamp and Louise Goshen were in charge. The table was decorated attractively in Hallowe'en design, with large trays of apples and grapes arranged as centerpieces.

Games and informal entertainment were enjoyed after the meeting.

BILL EDWARDS GLOOMY ABOUT RESERVE TEAM

Fears Red Cats Have Several More Lickings Coming Up

By RAY BLOSSER

CLEVELAND, Oct. 11—Now is the time for all good weepers to come to the aid of Western Reserve. "Big Bill" Edwards, the Red Cats' husky mentor, will preside at the match.

Edwards says he isn't disturbed about the Ohio university clash next Saturday which ended the Cats' 13-game victory streak.

But he fears that Reserve has come to evil days—maybe even three losses this season, perhaps as many as four. To prove that is something worth worrying about, Reserve has been undefeated three of the last four seasons.

May Do Good

"I think the 14-12 beating we took from Ohio U. will do the team a lot of good," Edwards declared today. "We were outworn all right."

"I'll tell you one thing—we have been overrated this year from the start. This ball club is not nearly so good as last year's. We lost a regular end, tackle, guard, two halfbacks and a quarter. You just can't do that—and they're all 'laying' for us."

His immediate worry is the Boston university game at Boston Saturday. If you saw Reserve walk all over the Terriers last year, 47 to 6, you would have no doubt about the outcome—but Edwards has.

HIT By Injuries

He declares four regulars won't see action at Boston because of injuries; All-Ohio Johnny Ries, junior back from Barberton, who was hurt against Dayton; line-smashing Steve Belichik, junior fullback from Struthers; Frank Crisci, senior tackle from New Castle, Pa., and Carmen Izzo, sophomore halfback from Mt. Pleasant. Pa. Ries has a twisted knee; Belichik a separation of his collar bone; Crisci a bad knee; Izzo a broken bone in his hand. And four others are nursing injuries.

Edwards saved his best moans for last:

"If we lose three ball games, I think we will have a great season."

"And do you know that we have only three freshmen football players this year? We finally made an appeal to the student body and ten men came out, but there are only three football players in the lot."

A lot of other Ohio coaches will feel awfully sorry about that.

O'BRIEN'S EYES ARE EXAMINED

Can See Easier From Side To Side, Say Noted Optometrists

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—Analyzing the "eyes in football," optometrists of Pennsylvania concluded today that one reason little Davey O'Brien passes so accurately and is so hard to catch when he's sprinting over a gridiron is that he can see better sideways than up and down.

The conclusion was based on a series of tests given O'Brien and nine other members of the Philadelphia Eagles, National Professional football team, at the 43rd Annual Convention of the Pennsylvania Optometric Association. Conducted by Dr. William N. Gilbert of the Pennsylvania College of Optometry, the tests were intended principally to determine the extent of a player's field of vision and possibly to suggest changes in the team's playing positions to overcome hitherto unsuspected handicaps.

The tests showed Dr. Gilbert said, that O'Brien's view to the right and left is above par. He can see a tackler coming alongside before the average player. When he's passing, he can quickly spot a receiver in the clear.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11—Ral Parr, 62, the turfman who owned a derby winner but said he liked the insurance business better than racing, died unexpectedly last night.

Parr's black, white and red silks, the oldest active colors registered with the New York Jockey club, were up when Paul Jones won the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont Suburban in 1920. But Parr once said:

"My horses are nothing more than hobbies. What I'm chiefly interested in is my business."

The insurance brokerage firm he built up is one of the largest in Maryland.

His Victory Morn won the Richland Johnson stake at Laurel Saturday.

Columbian Club Is Entertained: Mrs. Fink Hostess

COLUMBIANA, Oct. 11.—Mrs. G. A. Fink welcomed associate members of Columbian Mother club at her home on County Line road Monday evening, with 19 present. The president, Mrs. Kenneth Gormley, presided at the business meeting. Roll call was responded to by giving current events. Mrs. Everett Warrick reviewed part of the book, "Wilderness Wife." The next meeting will be Oct. 23 at the home of Mrs. Russell Estery.

The Missionary society of the Grace Reformed church will hold a silver tea at the home of Mr. Charles Fuhrman, Elm st., at 2 p.m. Friday, Oct. 20. A program of music and a book review will be presented.

The October meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the home of Mrs. Emmett Hollenshead, Union st. at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

Will H. Rupert is in a critical condition at the Elsworth Miller home following a cerebral hemorrhage suffered a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brightwell are parents of a daughter. Mrs. Brightwell was the former Margaret Gaines.

Relatives here have received word of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCallum at Alliance City hospital. The baby has been named Thomas Lee. Mrs. McCallum is the former Buelah Zellers of Columbiana.

The gym in the Presbyterian church is closed this week while the interior is undergoing repairs. The room is being cleaned and decorated for the winter activities and new lighting fixtures are being installed. An organized program of activities is scheduled to begin about Oct. 16.

Boy State Group To Speak

Five Salem High school Juniors who last summer attended the American Legion's Boy State program at Columbus will be guests of the Kiwanis club at luncheon Thursday at the Memorial building.

The group includes James Schaefer, Jack Warner, Allen Fehr, Mike Nicora and Eugene McCready. They will tell of their experiences. C. W. Kaminsky will be chairman.

Observe Columbus Day

Salem council No. 1818 Knights of Columbus, will observe Columbus day with a program and card party Thursday night at the lodge hall. The card party will be open to the members and friends.

Rev. Fr. J. A. Mahan will speak during the observance.

Lunch will be served after the meeting.

Hold Fire Drills

Fire drills were held at the Salem schools yesterday under the supervision of Fire Chief Vincent Malloy, as a part of the national Fire Prevention week.

The High school was emptied of students in two minutes and the other school buildings were cleared of pupils in less than two minutes.

Speaks On Europe

An address on present European conditions, traced from early history of the continent, was given by Atty. Joel Sharp at the Rotary club's noon luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Memorial building.

On Vacation

City Engineer and Mrs. F. S. Barchoff and son Frederick of South Lincoln ave., left Tuesday evening for Washington, D. C. for a few days vacation. They expect to return home Friday.

Class Officer

Miss Nance Gibbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Gibbs of the Painter rd., has been elected secretary-treasurer of the freshman class at Lake Erie college, Painesville.

Baptism Planned

The sacrament of infant baptism will be administered Sunday at the Presbyterian church, as a part of the morning worship, at 9:45.

The following children will be baptized:

Janet Carolyn Reynolds, Ruth Elizabeth Moore, Albert Jay Altman, Philip Lee Tettlow.

Patricia Rae Starbuck, Gloria Patricia Mayhew, Marilyn Ruth Lipp, Robert Raymond Reich, Carol Ann Slack, Marjorie Jane Williams.

Caution Light On

Upon councilmanic recommendation, police at nights are leaving burning the amber caution light of the traffic signals at the corner of E. State st. and Union ave. and S. Lincoln and Franklin avenues. Previously the lights were turned off after 10 p.m.

By leaving the caution light glowing, city officials believe motorists will observe a greater degree of caution at the intersections.

Boy State Group To Speak

Five Salem High school Juniors who last summer attended the American Legion's Boy State program at Columbus will be guests of the Kiwanis club at luncheon Thursday in the Memorial building.

The group includes James Schaefer, Jack Warner, Allen Fehr, Mike Nicora and Eugene McCready. They will tell of their experiences. C. W. Kaminsky will be chairman.

Observe Columbus Day

Salem council No. 1818, Knights of Columbus of Columbus, will observe Columbus day with a program and card party Thursday night at the lodge hall. The card party will be open to the members and friends.

Rev. Fr. J. A. Mahan will speak during the observance.

Lunch will be served after the meeting.

Registration For CCC Is Still Open

LISBON, Oct. 11.—Registration for enrollment in the Civilian Conservation corps will remain open until Monday according to H. A. Moore, Columbiana county certifying agent, who states that all youths between the ages of 17 and 25 interested in enrolling, should contact his office in the courthouse by next Monday.

The new applications will be received in anticipation of an increase in the quota for October. Moore stated, and those accepted will go to camp on Wednesday, Oct. 18 when the last contingent of the original quota will entrain.

Twenty-four white youths and one Negro composed the group which went to CCC camp Tuesday, while 20 more white boys are assigned to report at the armory in Youngstown next Wednesday.

The judge's decision freed four men of gambling charges.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Cremulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to loosen germ laden phlegm, increase secretion and add nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Cremulsion with the understanding that you are to like the way it quickly relieves the cough, or you are to have your money back.
